

SREE RAMAR TEMPLE

The Sree Ramar Temple is nestled in the rustic Changi Village. The Temple till today retains the rustic charm and prides itself in providing excellent service to all devotees. The Temple began at its present site more than 65 years ago as a shrine at the foot of a Bodhi tree. It initially served the spiritual needs of the Hindu community living in Changi during the British occupation. A proper shrine for the deities Sree Ramar, Sree Seetha, Sree Lakshmanar and Sree Hanuman was built in 1946 with the help of the residents living in Changi Village.

Today, the Temple has become a focal point of worship for Hindus all over Singapore. Among the key festivals conducted in the Temple include Ramar Navami, Hanumath Jayanthi, Navarathri Festival, Thiruvilakku Pooja and Chandi Homam. The Temple has several unique features. First, the Temple is one of the very few establishments in Singapore that houses both Vaishnavite and Saivaite deities. Second, the Temple structure and layout has received unanimous acclaim from temple experts in Temple Science and Architecture from Madurai, South India.

Facing east and overlooking the sea, the temple strictly confines to doctrines of the Vasthu Shastra, and acts as a guardian to the Changi Village. Third, apart from Hindu deities the Temple has also consecrated statues of Lord Buddha and Quan Yin (Goddess of Mercy). This is to cater for the regular non-Hindu devotees who frequent the Temple. Fourth, standing at 21 feet, the Temple has the tallest Hanuman statute in Singapore. Fifth, the Temple is the first in Singapore to harness technology and use a Point of Sales system to issue receipts for its archanais and poojas. This has now been adopted in several Temples in Singapore.

The Temple strongly believes that religious institutions should do their part to help the needy and promote national cohesion. The Temple runs a monthly food ration project for needy families, called Project Akshaya. The Temple also annually assists about 300 needy children with Bursaries. Apart from this, the Temple supports other social causes for the needy such as SINDA's Project Give, Tamil Representatives Council's Bursary Awards, etc. One unique feature of the Temple's charitable activities is that it is open to everyone regardless of race and religion.
